

To Investors

Dear investors, we are pleased to introduce our advanced and innovative company specializing in AI, distributed computing, and blockchain solutions that are relevant to society. Gybernaty has already attracted significant interest from investors, and we are preparing for investment rounds.

Our first investment round will be private and specifically targeted towards large investors and funds. We will consider applications for participation and extend invitations to join this round. In this round, we aim to attract substantial investments to accelerate the development of our projects.

The second investment round will take place on specialized token sale platforms. During this round, we will offer GBR tokens to a wider audience of investors. This round will comply with the rules and requirements of the platforms, ensuring investor protection and transparency.

The third and final investment round will be held on the open market of a multi-blockchain network. In this round, tokens will be available to all interested investors, emphasizing maximum openness and accessibility of the project.

Participation in our project offers significant advantages for each category of investors. For large investors and funds, participating in the first investment round provides access to new and promising technologies, innovative solutions, and potential profits through their development. For individual investors, the second and third investment rounds provide an opportunity to invest in a promising and fast-growing project.

Investors will receive GBR tokens and have the potential to profit from future token price increases. Overall, our project has tremendous potential for investors, and we invite you to join our team and contribute to the development of technologies that are relevant to society in the areas of blockchain, social media, distributed computing, and artificial intelligence in an open-access environment.
